

Trips around Ojcowski National Park with elements of Ecological Education

Ecological classes in the Ojcowski National Park are a great complement to classes conducted in schools.

Exploring trees

The purpose of this lesson is to make students aware of the diversity of species and to teach them to recognize some trees.

Students working in groups with the help of a simple tree marking key search in the field and recognize selected species.

Using worksheets they note their basic features. Sheets draw children's attention to the silhouette of the tree, the shape and color of the leaves, bark, flowers, fruits and other easy to observe features of the tree species and the basic properties of the habitat.
